

A Night Out at the Movies Was Never Meant to Be This... Profitable!

For a share price that'll cost you less than a movie ticket... Hollywood's "Digital Revolution"
Could Net You $147,300 in Just Under 2 Years!

Dear Savvy Reader,

If you've seen Mission Impossible III, Cars, The Fast and the Furious, Superman Returns, The Devil Wears Prada, X-Men, or a host of other new releases on the "Silver Screen," you've likely paid money to the shareholders of a little-known Internet software company in Morristown, New Jersey that's rapidly taking over Hollywood.

Imagine... receiving a royalty payment when a movie — a megamillion-dollar blockbuster — is shown in a theater.

Or... pocketing a cut of the action — a portion of the purse — when a rock band or a major league sporting spectacular is viewed on a movie theater's silver screen.

Well, stop imagining — you can.

I've discovered a NASDAQ-traded company that's leading the revolution in the way digital media — movies, rock concerts, sporting events — is bought, transmitted and projected on the "Silver Screen."

Why This Could Mean Big Dollars in Your Pocket...

Have you ever driven your car on a toll road or highway? Of course you have. You toss a couple of quarters in the metal basket or hand the attendant a couple of bucks, hope for change, and on your way you go.

Well, I'm predicting that in just two years, this company I'm writing to you about today could own, control or license all the toll booths and digital highways connecting every producer and developer of digital media — to nearly every movie theater, exhibition hall and conference room in the world.

It's Ingenious!

This company's business model is a classic identify-the-need, satisfy-the-need, and then quickly dominate the industry that's been created. Bill Gates did it with Microsoft, and the computer software industry has never been the same since.

"Hollywood can't wait to go digital."

— USA Today

Michael Dell did it with custom-ordered, assembly line-produced computers. And today Dell is in a league of its own — no other company comes close.

And now this small-town New Jersey company is following in their footsteps.

It's figured out how to control a sizable portion of the film and entertainment industry and shove its long arms into the pockets of major (and not-so-major) movie studios, distributors and theater owners in the United States.

And the movie studios, distributors and theater owners are loving it. Why? Because, they see the money — the big profits — just around the corner.

Let me explain...

Movie Studio Heavyweights Want to Go Digital

In the spring of 2002 seven movie studios — Disney, Universal, MGM, Paramount, Warner Bros., 20th Century Fox and Sony, banded together to form the Digital Cinema Initiative (DCI).

Their purpose: To develop, in cooperation with the American Society of Cinematographers (ASC), a common, system-wide standard for digital cinema that ensures a uniform and high level of technical performance, reliability and quality control.

The 3 Big Reasons for All the Excitement

Reason One: Money. Digital media is cheap!

Rick McCallum, a producer on Star Wars Episode II: Attack of the Clones, said it cost him $16,000 to shoot 220 hours of his movie on digital tape. If he had shot the same amount of hours on traditional analog film (literally a 19th century technology), it would have cost him $1.8 million.

"Digital is a very big deal."

— Dan Fellman,
president, Warner Bros.

Distributors will also save money.

A single analog film print can cost over $1,200. So imagine printing 4,000 copies for a worldwide release of a movie — it could cost a distributor $5 million or more (which doesn't include the cost to ship all those reels of film in those heavy metal cans)!

But with a digital distribution system, whether you show a movie in 1,000 theaters or in just one, the cost is about the same.

Digital movies of course are nothing more than big computer files... and just like computer files they can be sent anywhere through a broadband cable or via satellite.

And so with hundreds of movies distributed every year on average, industry savings, using digital media, could reach $1 billion!

“Digital projection is coming, not only to Landmark Theaters but to the larger chains, too.”

— The New York Times

Now can you see why the industry is dying to go digital?

Movies can open in theaters all over the world on the same day — with hardly any additional cost or effort.

Theater Owners Will Make Even More Money

Theater owners will also have more control and increased flexibility over programming.

In fact, they can change their programming as easily as you can rearrange a play list on an iPod.

With the flick of a switch, digital theaters can show supersized non-movie entertainment on their screens — like pay-per-view live concerts and major sporting events — and fill their houses with enthusiastic cash-waving audiences.

“This can be as profound a change in the movie-making experience as color and sound.”

— Titanic director James Cameron

Just recently, a 90-minute concert by rocker David Bowie was simultaneously beamed by satellite to 22 digital cinemas across Europe. And a pay-per-view Bon Jovi concert was shown on theater screens the day before the band released its latest CD.

Studios can also distribute digital films with soundtracks in multiple languages to attract even wider audiences. A movie house could schedule a new blockbuster to play in Spanish at 5 p.m., Japanese at 7 p.m. and then go back to English at 9 p.m.

And when a movie is successful, theater owners can copy the digital file and feed it to multiple projectors within the movie house.

“You could see a substantial transition (to digital) by the end of 2006.”

— John Fithian, president, National Association of Theatre Owners

With celluloid, theaters must estimate in advance how many prints they’ll need. Then they’re often caught short when a movie is a surprise hit — and they have to wait for more prints to be delivered.

They can also turn a theater’s “dark time,” when they’re normally empty, into dollars. They can program content from museums and performing arts centers — content that their audiences would want to view — but can’t normally see on TV.

Theaters could also become more attractive venues for corporate presentations, college lectures and religious services — which would bring in even more dollars.

For example, theater-chain operators, like the Regal Entertainment Group, have leased their theaters to companies like Microsoft, Sprint, eBay and American Express for corporate events, complete with big-screen satellite presentations.

Protection Against Piracy –$3.5 Billion Saved

Reason Two: When a movie is digitally encrypted, and with only the theater owner or vendor in possession of the releasing key or code, bootleg copies will become more traceable, enabling prosecution — which could make movie piracy a thing of the past.

The Motion Picture Association of America estimates Hollywood lost $3.5 billion last year to bootleg movies.

“The full optimization of theaters will come, experts say, when the business converts from celluloid to digital. The new format will allow not only for instant and dirt-cheap distribution of films but also for targeted distribution of independent films, distinct versions for unique audiences, subtitles, and dubbing, never mind beamed-in rock concerts or kids’ shows.”

And $3.5 billion saved — is $3.5 billion earned!

— Andy Serwer, FORTUNE editor at large, FORTUNE Magazine

Reason Three: The audience. They benefit, too. Digitally-recorded images are clearer, cleaner and crisper, and remain so even when viewed 1,500 times.

Celluloid, over time, wears thin, scratches, smudges and tears, and eventually has to be replaced.

And, with digital tape, each movie frame is more evenly lit, from edge to edge. There's no bright spot in the middle as there is with celluloid film.

The whole theater experience will be dramatically enhanced, which may lead to increased attendance — which would bring in even more dollars!

So How Did This Tiny Company Single-Handedly Conquer Hollywood?

Founded in 2000 in Morristown, New Jersey, this visionary software company saw its opportunity and jumped all over it.

“...A digitally projected digital movie is a shiny marvel...”

— Entertainment Weekly

And now it owns the keys — the 4 keys — to the digital cinema kingdom.

Key #1- Distribution Management Software: In its simplest form, this company owns the listing service that enables digital content owners (movie studios, independent producers, etc.) and distributors to buy and sell program content online.

So a content owner, for example, can log on to this company's Web site and list all its available digital titles for sale or rent.

Key #2- Exhibition Management Software: Movie theatres, museums, community arts centers and other venues that exhibit programming to large audiences could then log on to this same Web site and view all the available content.

Massive Revenue Acceleration!

Key #3- Managed Digital Delivery:

Once an exhibitor finds the content that he'd like to order, the selection screen provides a link that sends a "Memo of Interest" to the distributor.

And then from that point forward the service takes care of transmitting the selected title to the theatre — securely and efficiently.

"We applaud the successes of this company and acknowledge it as one of the very few to accomplish such a fast growth rate over the past five years."

— Paul Mlynarski, partner,
Deloitte & Touche LLP

Key #4- Common Platform: The company's proprietary software programs enable the different brands of hardware owned by distributors and exhibitors (projectors, servers and routers ) to "talk" to one another — eliminating any and all technical incompatibilities.

The company has also signed formal agreements with various satellite and bandwidth providers, system integrators and hardware vendors (digital projector manufacturers, for example) to host their system, and further spread their digital cinema revolution.

Year Over Year Revenue Growth – 58%

2-Year Revenue Growth – 99%

Okay... so the company has the means to deliver on the promise.

But... can the company turn the promise into a moneymaking, profit bonanza for its shareholders?

You bet!

This Company Is Intent on World Domination

In the summer of 2005, the company announced a major studio-backed plan to deploy 4,000 DCI-compliant digital projection systems throughout the United States by the end of 2007 (and it's already way ahead of schedule).

1,202% Year Over Year Cash

It is the first and largest deployment of its kind in the world.

Not only would this deployment have a major impact on the company's bottom line in the here and now — it's also thought to be the blueprint for the potential conversion of all 105,000 cinema screens throughout the world.

Coming Soon to a Theater Near You

And this is no pipe dream — bags of money will flood this company's coffers...!

Many of the highest-grossing films of 2006 have been digital releases. They include, in order of domestic gross:

- Pirates of the Caribbean: Dead Man's Chest (2006 box office gross - $416,591,183)...
- Cars (2006 box office gross - $242,618,740)...
- X-Men: The Last Stand (2006 box office gross - $234,337,076)...
- The DaVinci Code (2006 box office gross - $217,536,138).

And let's not forget these winners:

- Superman Returns (2006 box office gross - $197,430,626)...
- Ice Age - The Meltdown (2006 box office gross - $195,329,763)...
- Over The Hedge (2006 box office gross - $155,019,340)
- ...
- Talladega Nights: The Ballad of Ricky Bobby (2006 box office gross - $143,040,578)...
- Click (2006 box office gross - $136,812,330 )...
- Mission Impossible III (2006 box office gross - $133,501,348).

1st Quarter 2007 Revenue Growth Estimates – 40.42% 2nd Quarter 2007 Revenue Growth Estimates – 118.23% 3rd Quarter 2007 Revenue Growth Estimates – 162.02% — Charles Schwab Research

Which brings the total 2006 box office gross, for these digital releases, to a whopping $6,601,887,559 – and don't forget some of these films are still in theaters making money!

And Why Are These Billions of Dollars Important to You?

You'll love this...

Every time a digital film is shown on a digital projector supplied, owned or financed by this company (and a truly significant portion are) the company is paid a royalty.

AND... even if a theater doesn't use this company's equipment... if the company merely delivers a digital movie to the theater — it's still paid a royalty!

Are you seeing the possibilities here?

And Next Year Promises to be a Blockbuster Digital Movie Bonanza!

In fact, next summer is expected to be the biggest single movie season in history.

Here's what's on tap to be released:

May 4: *Spider-Man 3
May 18: *Shrek the Third
May 25: *Pirates of the Caribbean: At World's End
June 8: *Ocean's Thirteen
June 15: *Fantastic Four: Rise of the Silver Surfer
June 22: *Evan Almighty
June 29: *Live Free or Die Hard
July 4: *Transformers
July 13: *Harry Potter and the Order of the Phoenix
July 27: *The Simpsons Movie
August 3: *The Bourne Ultimatum

"National CineMedia, a joint venture formed last year by theater owners AMC, CineMar and Regal, recently hired J.P. Morgan Chase to help develop financing plan to convert 13,000 screens to digital cinema. J.P. Morgan will try to raise about $1 billion for the effort over the next six months."

— Los Angeles Times

And every one of these films will be a digital release.

Our prediction is that this company's stock price is going to soar — again!

How Soon Could You See $147,300 in Your Pocket?

Let me put it to you this way... In just 21 months, this company's share price has already skyrocketed 360.22% — from a share-price low of $3.20 in August of 2004 to a high of $14.73 in May of this year.

Had you bought just 1,000 shares of this company at a cost of only $3,200 — you would've more than tripled, almost quadrupled, your money, and pocketed $14,730.

Had you bought 10,000 shares — for just $3.20 a share — right now you'd be smiling ear to ear with $147,300 in your pocket.

Your Profit Window: Buy This Company Now at Just Around $8 a Share

Currently the company's share price has backed off from its all-time high, and now hovers around $8 a share. And that's not bad news — not by any measure.

Just the opposite.

If you've been in the market for any length of time, you know that no stock moves straight up without occasional pause or pullback.

Indeed, occasional short-duration pullbacks are what you hope for in a stock. It offers you, as a potential investor, an excellent entry point to either add or establish a position.

A pullback is also "the pause that refreshes" — allowing "technical" strength to build up in a stock. In effect, it "primes the spring" that propels the stock to new and durable highs.

If you can afford the price of a movie ticket... and before this company's share price shoots up again... take advantage of this little gem for odds-on, fast-paced and stellar gains.

Just click on the link at the bottom of this letter, and I'll immediately send you a Free Special Report, with even more information about this blockbuster investment opportunity.

Why am I So Confident This Company Will Be Your Shortcut to Monumental Gains?

Allow me to briefly introduce myself, and you'll quickly understand.

My name is Christian DeHaemer, and I'm the editor-in-chief of the Red Zone Profits Trade Analysis System.

Over the years, Red Zone Profits has been profiled in the Los Angeles Times, Forbes Magazine, MarketWatch.com, StockDr.com, Money Matters, Personal Finance Radio, On the Money, and The Hollywood Reporter, to name but a few.

"There are two or three serious and significant deployment plans that will come together over the next couple months."

— Julian Levin,
executive vice-president,
20th Century Fox

And the reason is simple: I pick winning stocks.

I've beaten the market — the Dow, the NASDAQ, the S&P 500, every year for the last five years.

Who else do you know who can say that?

And that's exactly why I'm writing to you today: I want to help you get rich. And if you're already rich... I want to help you get even richer!

Why Red Zone Profits Delivers Time and Time Again

Red Zone Profits is a novel and unique publication, offering investment opinions based upon a revolutionary, never-before-seen System.

Red Zone Profits combines technical and fundamental analysis in a new and uniquely predictive way to identify high-profit — very high-profit — opportunities in stocks and options that could provide fast gains in a minimum period of time.

“In the month of January alone this year, I made $213,800 on three nano stocks. It is awesome!”

— R.C., Red Zone Profits subscriber

Of course all this sounds very impressive... but where's the proof?

Right here:

As I just stated... since 2002 my Red Zone Profits System is up 8,974%. A truly amazing number indeed. And I get that number by simply adding up the winners and subtracting the losers.

And that comes out to an average daily return — yes, daily return — of 5.45% for the past four years — on more than 300 recommendations — which roughly equals two trading recommendations every week.

“I bought Cemex in October 2005 at $1.10 and sold them yesterday at $7.70 for a 600% profit. Thanks!”

— A.S., Red Zone Profits subscriber

You don't trade twice a week? Nobody says you have to.

But isn't it comforting to know, whichever way the market is moving — up, down or sideways — and no matter what hot economic, political or social event is influencing the market during the course of the week — you can rely on me and my team to tell you about a money-making opportunity, on average, twice a week!

Money Speaks Louder Than Words

With Red Zone Profits you'll never have a reason for worry or concern. I'll always tell you exactly where I think the best investment plays are, so you won't ever have to second-guess the market.

Just read my analysis and you could easily see substantial gains no matter what the stock market is doing.

“Sold 3/5 of position (30 calls), for net gain of $27,682. Will close out remaining 20 calls this week for expected gain of approximately $22,000. Thanks for the heads up on this.”

— A.A., Red Zone Profits subscriber

So now... let me ask you one question:

Do you know of any other trading research service that can deliver equal or better gains than we can?

154% gains on Niku Corporation in 12 months and another 123% just a month later...

162% and 100% gains on Markland Technologies in just 5 and 6 days, respectively...

127% gains on Petro-Kazakhstan calls in just 2 weeks...

79% gains on Videsh Sanchar Nigam Ltd in a little over 4 months...

515% gains on PalmSource in just 3 days...

338% gains on Evergreen Solar in less than 1 month...

206% and 154% gains on Vitesse in just 11 months and 18 months,

"I have been a subscriber of Red Zone since about August last year. I have traded on and off for about 15 years, and really enjoy your newsletter. I finally funded my account at my brokerage with $5,000 and had also been trading some covered calls from another advisory service. However, since I had them in energies and gold, they did not protect my portfolio in this last dip in the gold and energy markets so my portfolio went down to about $3,500 pretty rapidly. However, since I use a stop loss from 2-5% of my account value, I still had enough left to take some of your recommendations, such as the SEAC, CDE, BIVN, ELN and DD.

"Well, the great news is thank you so much for advising me of the above stocks. They are returning my account to green very rapidly, and in no way shape or form could I have ever discovered these amazing stocks and options alone. Your service is invaluable... You are literally saving my account from ruin, so I wanted to say thank you. Your insights, and picks are tremendous."

respectively.

My First Rule for Investment Success: Lose No Money

Like the Hippocratic Oath that medical doctors take which states, “Do No Harm,” Red Zone Profits’ oath states, “Lose No Money.”

“...71% profit in 10 days. It works for me!!!”

— R.S., Red Zone Profits subscriber

That’s why we screen for companies that have strong fundamental values such as powerful insider buying and a solid balance sheet.

For example, if a company trades for less than cash on its balance sheet (indicating a potential bargain), and has a price-to-earnings growth number (PEG) below 1.0 (indicating that it may indeed be a bargain) — it could become a candidate for more intense review.

Of course, we also look at the charts. And what we look for specifically is one of the most useful technical analysis tools available to the modern-day trader.

I call it the “loaded gun”...

Little-Known Secrets of Technical Analysis

Most analysts fall short by tending to look at either technical OR fundamental analysis. But my team and I, we look at both.

“Another home run... whoever says you can’t make money in this market must not be a Red Zoner... keep up the good work boys!!”

— S.M., Red Zone Profits subscriber

The “loaded gun” occurs when a stock exhibits a “bottoming pattern.”

If you can find a “flatline” on a chart you’ll see what I mean.

The “flatline” or the “bottoming pattern” represents buyers and sellers in equal numbers — where the buyers are buying on the dips, and the sellers are selling at the resistance points.

And this flatline or bottoming pattern can go on and on (until the last seller cashes in his chips, and the only people left are the buyers.)

And so, every day that this bottoming pattern continues, with the chart moving sideways — “the spring” gets wound a little tighter... like a loaded gun waiting for the hammer to fall and a spark to ignite — causing a powerful explosion that sends the stock flying upward.

What can cause the spark?

A news event, an earnings report, whatever, and then... KABOOM! The stock takes off!

The “loaded gun” of course happens all the time, but the trick is... knowing when the last seller is ready to sell.

Otherwise, you could be holding on to a “dead stock” for years.

So you need something more — a sign that the stock is percolating and building pressure for a blastoff.

3 Signs to Tell You You’re Looking at a Screaming Winner

The Trigger — A volume surge: This indicates a renewed interest in the company.

The Hammer — A “gap up”: The stock gaps up as buyers overwhelm sellers. This is a precursor to a “bump-and-run rally.”

The Spark — A break above the resistance point: All analysts watch resistance points and trendlines.

And if a stock breaks above a 200-day moving average, or a major resistance point, computer-based buy signals are activated all across Wall Street. And then a rally becomes a self-fulfilling prophecy.

But these factors are still not enough. And I’ll tell you why...

“...Sold AMR this a.m. @ $6.95 for a $20K profit in 7 trading days. Thank you. Thank you. Thank you.”

— P.P., Red Zone Profits subscriber

You Want Downside Insurance

Another one of my rules is that the company under my microscope must have fundamental value in order to offer the most protection from downside risk. And I determine value by three factors:

Insider Buying: Strong insider buying is always a good indicator that those who know the most about a company are willing to put their money where their mouths are. You'll rarely go wrong when you buy alongside a company's CEO and CFO.

A Solid Balance Sheet: I like companies that trade for less than their assets. I really like stocks that trade for less than cash.

This means that the market capitalization of the stock is less than what the company has in the bank, plus short-term investments, minus debt (cash + liquid investments - debt > market cap = amazing buy).

This is a no-brainer. If the market values a company at less than the total amount of its cash, then by definition it's undervalued.

A PEG Ratio Under 1: A PEG ratio stands for Price-to-Earnings over Growth (PE/G). It tells you not only the relative value of a company using the Price-to-Earnings ratio (P/E) but it also takes growth into account (a safer way of valuing a company.)

"I bought SURE at $7.51 and sold it at $18.33 for a nice profit of 244%."

— L.L.C., Red Zone Profits subscriber

And when a stock meets all of the above six criteria... it enters my "Red Zone." And only then does it become a recommendation.

And if you act in a timely manner, Red Zone Profits recommendations will almost always go up in value.

Start Investing Like It's 1997 All Over Again!

And you can, because it's been more than 10 years since I've seen a market like the one we're in right now.

"Thanks guys for the great trade — we banked 90% on the QQQ trade — sweet action."

— J.W., Red Zone Profits subscriber

There are so many "loaded guns" out there.

Really! We haven't seen a market like this since the early 1990's when the Dow Jones Industrials (DJIA) traded in the 3,000's for four years. That's right, in February of 1995 the Dow was at 3,845.86...

And then, the following year — BAM! — it was at 5,395.30.

Another massive gain, following a flatline market, also happened in 1954–1956, when the Dow jumped from 292 to 470 after trading in the 200's since 1950.

And Now the Celebrated “Dow Theory” Has Signaled the Start of the Next Bull Run!

If you're not familiar with the Dow Theory... then, very quickly... it states that if the Dow Jones Industrial Average (DJIA) and the Dow Jones Transport Average (DJTA) both move in the same direction — hitting a significant high (or low) around the same time — you can positively declare the start of a bull (or bear) market.

Since the Dow Theory was first observed, 104 years ago, it's been an accurate predictor of stock direction — 92.6% of the time.

So guess what?

On Oct. 26, 2006, the Dow Jones Industrial Average (DJIA) closed at 12,163 — marking an all-time high!

On May 10, 2006, just a few months ago, the Dow Jones Transport Average (DJTA) hit 5,038 — an all-time high!

This confirmation signal means we have a 92.6% chance of being correct when we proclaim that we're in the first stage of the next great bull run!

I just can't tell you how excited I am about this. And you should be as well.

The last significant Dow signal occurred in 1997 right before the Dow Jones Industrial went from 5,800 to 12,000 — and the NASDAQ went from 1,500 to 5,200 — it was the greatest bull market in history...

Creating a New Millionaire Nearly Every Minute

Now that the Dow Theory has officially confirmed a new bull market, it's only going to get better very quickly...

Why?

According to Stock Trader's Almanac, most bull market rallies start in October with November, December and January being the best months. The total gain on the S&P 500 since 1950 has been 49.4% in October, 91.5% in November, 92.5% in December and 80% in January.

So don't think that you can wait to hitch a ride on the Dow's next big bull run.

And remember: He who hesitates — loses...

Especially When It Comes to the Digital Cinema Revolution

All the big movie studios and distributors have slated their biggest blockbuster releases for November 24 — Black Friday — the day after Thanksgiving. It's the biggest movie day of the year.

And all the big Wall Street brokers and money managers — who have their eyes square on their year-end bonuses — know this.

So... they're looking to buy — and sooner or later, they'll get wind of our little New Jersey Cinderella company... and drive up the price.

So you need to get in there first — and snatch up as many shares of this digital cinema pioneer as quickly as possible — and certainly no later than November 24!

Speed and Timing Are Crucial

Indeed, the essence of our trading research service is due diligence and exact timing.

And we hold our investment picks anywhere from six days to a few years — until we either hit our profit target, or our proprietary “sell signal” is triggered.

But, rest assured, we'll always tell you when it's time to get in, and when it's time to quickly get out (of course, if the going is good we'll tell you to just hang in there for even bigger possible gains).

“In at $.50 and out at $1.10 for a very nice

And... If You Subscribe Right Now...

I'll give you two more hot investment recommendations — outlined in two additional Special Reports:

Hot Bonus Investment Recommendation #1:
The 20-Year Stock!

Stick this overlooked and undervalued company in your retirement account. Then, let it do its magic for the next 20 years... and you could have a million dollars to draw on.

The company buys hospitals, then leases them back to the health-care companies — long term.

It's got a forward price-to-earnings ratio (P/E) of 10. A profit margin of 63.17%. Quarterly revenue growth, Y-O-Y, of 81.8%, and is expected to continue paying a 7.7% dividend.

Tell me, are those numbers to drool over, or not?

Health care is the fastest-growing segment of the U.S. economy. And I predict it's going to grow even faster and higher as the baby boomers grow older.

When the market "discovers" this hot stock — watch out! What a ride that's going to be!

And it'll be yours... when you subscribe...

Hot Bonus Investment Recommendation #2: *Profits as Hot as the Sun!

With gas prices tugging at America's wallets and crude soon heading back above $70 a barrel, there's a lot of interest in alternative energy. Everything from ethanol to bio-diesel is being touted as a potential savior — and alternative energy stocks are soaring!

Well, I've found a company that's a shiny bright star in the solar energy field.

The industry as a whole boasts a compound annual growth rate of around 35%. By the way, we've played the solar technology field before, when we took 363% gains on Evergreen Solar options.

Now, we're looking at a great buying opportunity in another powerhouse solar stock. It's a company that provides photovoltaic systems — throughout the most populous nation in the world — China!

China's power demand, as you well know, is growing almost exponentially. And considering the amount of fossil fuels China already burns, I expect solar power adoption to skyrocket.

And that skyrocketing growth rate is already evident in the company's financials.

This is a value stock, growth stock, and emerging technology stock all rolled into one — and it could be your next great stock buy — a possible 10-bagger!
