...You Can When You Become "Lucid" in Your Dreams!

For centuries, thousands of people have awoken within their dreams and explored their own minds, directed their own thoughts, and enjoyed soaring flights of imagination and fancy.

When you're dreaming, you're able to manifest your most ardent desires and transcend all limitations. When you're dreaming—and are aware that you're dreaming—your spirit is empowered and energized. You can explore a higher and deeper consciousness, and embrace the wisdom buried within you.

But how do you awaken yourself within your dream—so that you can truly say, "Wow! I must be dreaming!"

...And then continue to dream... and if you chose... let your imagination and deepest desires change the dream... so you can explore other universes, journey to other lands... to fly... to run... to excel... or just be with someone you love and maybe left behind... to touch them again, or for the first time.

Have Your Dream Come True—Tonight!

All you need is the amazing DreamMask!

On the outside, the DreamMask looks like a soft, plush, silk sleeping mask—much like any sleep mask designed to block out light and provide you with a restful, uninterrupted sleep.

But, inside the DreamMask is a small computerized circuit panel and a sensitive infrared motion detector that can recognize when you enter REM (Rapid Eye Movement) sleep—the dream stage of sleep.

You see, when you're looking at various objects within your dream, your eyes actually move—even though you're sleeping. And when the DreamMask detects these eye's movements, it will then flash a series of soft red LED lights.

And when you begin to notice these soft red lights within your dream, you'll quickly realize that—you're dreaming!

And from that point on... you'll be able to unlock the hidden secrets of your mind—to unleash the power of your imagination—to access your innermost desires and ambitions—to expand your unique and hidden potential—and step through opened doorways to inspiration, creativity, and enlightenment!
